In these rules, the term "cookies" is used for cookies or other similar technologies covered by the EU Privacy and Electronic Communications Directive.

What is a cookie?

Cookies are small text files created by visiting a website and containing data. They are stored on a user's computer and allow it to access various functions. On our site we use both session and permanent cookies. A session cookie is temporarily stored in a computer memory while the user is browsing the page. This cookie is deleted when the user closes the web browser or when a certain time has elapsed (this means that the session has expired). A permanent cookie remains on the user's computer until it is deleted.

Why are we using cookies?

We use cookies to learn more about how users use our content, but they also help us improve your experience when you visit a site. Cookies do not record any personal information about the user and do not store information that could identify you. If you do not want to use cookies, set up your computer by deleting all cookie pages and / or warning you before the cookie is saved to disk. If you do not want to change the use of cookies, simply go to the site.

For more information about cookies and their impact on you and your web browsing, visit www.aboutcookies.org

Mandatory cookies

These cookies are necessary to navigate the website and use of its options, such as access to safe areas of a website. Without these cookies, it is not possible to provide the services you requested, such as a prize game form, etc.

Implementing Cookies

These cookies collect information about how the website is used, such as which users are most often visited, and whether an error message appears on web pages. These cookies do not collect information that could identify the user. All collected information is aggregated and therefore anonymous. These cookies are only used to improve the performance of the website.

By using our website, you agree to install this type of cookie on your device.

Functional cookies

These cookies allow the site to remember your chosen options (such as your username, language, or region where you are) and offer you enhanced, more personalized options. These cookies can also be remembered for changes in the size of letters and fonts and other parts of the site that you can customize. They are also useful for providing the services you requested, such as watching a video or commenting on a blog. The
